

REGIONAL NEWS

Tennessee Williams Theater Festival Sets Date for 2018 Return

BY ADAM HETRICK
JAN 03, 2018

Entitled “Tennessee Williams: While We’re Waiting,” the festival returns for its 13th annual year in Provincetown.

Tennessee Williams (Orlando Fernandez)

The 13th annual Tennessee Williams Theater Festival will return September 27–30, 2018, in Provincetown, Massachusetts.

Centering around the theme “Tennessee Williams: While We’re Waiting,” the full calendar for the festival will be announced June 8.

This year's line-up will feature works by Williams and other writers from around the world, produced and performed by festival artists and collaborators both new and established.

The 2018 Festival program will be announced June 2, during the organization's gala dinner. Past recipients have included Dana Delany (2017), Brian Dennehy (2016), Cherry Jones (2015), Zachary Quinto (2014), and Elizabeth Ashley (2013).

For further information, visit twptown.org.

DO YOU KNOW THE TOP 12 MOST-REVIVED PLAYS SINCE 1950?

Do You Know the Top 12 Most-Revived Plays...

Which plays have played Broadway the most in the last half-century?

57 PHOTOS

Click Here to Shop for Theatre Merchandise

SPONSORED CONTENT

WATCH HIGHLIGHTS FROM SOME OF BROADWAY'S BEST SHOWS

BY CONNATIX
FEB 21, 2018